- Kakejiku Art for Muslim -

Prayerm Kakejiku is a Japanese art for Muslim in praying.
It can change any praying space beautifully like mosques.

Kakejiku

The kakejiku is a Japanese luxury art, a work of calligraphy or a painting which is mounted and hung in an alcove or on a wall.

The beauty of kakejiku is that they can be rolled up, which makes them compact, portable and easy to store. Moreover the kakejiku is very light and easy to handle. You can easily take it with yourself everywhere.

An essential aspect of kakejiku is that they are not intended to be hung permanently. They are changed at frequent intervals. Japanese people enjoy changing painting or calligraphic works depending on occasions, guests and the seasons. Part of the pleasure of hanging a kakejiku is selecting one that is appropriate for the specific occasions or guests.

Prayerm is the most appropriate kakejiku for Muslim.

Arabic Calligraphy

The calligraphy works of Arabic kakejiku are written by famous Japanese calligraphers, who love Islamic art.

Japanese Paper -Washi-

Washi is a style of paper that was first made in Japan. It is generally tougher than ordinary paper made from wood pulp, and is used in many traditional Japanese arts.

Mounting -Hyougu-

The mounting, which is for both decoration and protection of the main work, is called the "hyougu". People see the combination of the two as one work of art and appreciate this.

Elegant, gorgeous brocade is used for the kakejiku.

Compared with ordinary frames, hyougu can give a more unique atmosphere to your space.
